Book 1: Home is Where the Heart Is

In the first installment of the trilogy, Home is Where the Heart Is, we are introduced to Emma, a fiercely independent young woman with a burning desire to make a name for herself in the world of art. Leaving her small town behind, Emma heads for the bustling city, where she hopes to find the inspiration and recognition she craves.

However, the big city proves to be both thrilling and daunting for Emma. As she navigates through the challenges of forging a career and searching for love, she begins to question her choices and wonder if she made the right decision by leaving her family and familiar surroundings. This inner conflict forms the crux of the first book, leaving readers eagerly anticipating the next chapter of Emma's journey.

Book 2: Beyond the Horizon

In Beyond the Horizon, the second book of the trilogy, we shift our focus to Alex, a young man with a passion for adventure. Despite the warnings of his loved ones, Alex sets sail on a journey around the world, seeking thrills and experiences beyond the boundaries of his small-town life.

As Alex explores different cultures, faces unexpected dangers, and encounters fascinating people along the way, he begins to understand the true meaning of belonging. Through breathtaking descriptions of exotic landscapes and heartwarming friendships, this book takes readers on a rollercoaster ride of emotions, leaving them excitedly waiting for the final installment.

Book 3: The Road Less Traveled

The final book of the trilogy, The Road Less Traveled, brings Sarah's story to the forefront. Sarah, a reserved and introspective young woman, had always yearned for a life of purpose and meaning. Determined to make a difference in the world, she leaves her hometown and embarks on a spiritual journey that takes her to distant lands.

Throughout her travels, Sarah encounters wise mentors, uncovers hidden truths about herself, and learns valuable life lessons. This book delves deep into themes of self-discovery, inner strength, and the profound impact of finding one's purpose. As the trilogy reaches its climax, readers will find themselves unable to tear their eyes away from the pages.

Second Place Silver Award for Literary Excellence in the AMERICAN EAGLE BOOK AWARDS 2019

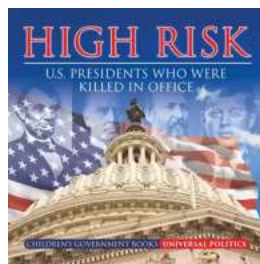

An Ambition to Belong, second book of the Leaving Home Trilogy, is an astute and insightful psychological journey into the inner life of Jim, an adolescent who is trying to forge his own identity. Trapped in two different worlds, he belongs nowhere: at one end his Polish immigrant inner-city Catholic family and its Eastern European peasant beliefs and terrors; and at the other a late-1950s upper-class suburban Jesuit college-prep high school in suburban Detroit where he is totally unprepared to deal with that world of money and arrogance he finds there. At home, raw gut emotion; at school emotionless intellect. At home he is a member of The Royal Lancers, a street gang where his life is threatened by Donny, a psychotically deranged fellow gang member; at school, because of his dress, especially his Ford Motor Company issue black work shoes, he is perceived as a non-entity, a non-being who has little or no existence. Confronted with racism and a savage incident of anti-Semitism, Jim rises to find the strength that forms the first layer of his conscience and his conscious sense of self.
