Aldo Leopold, a renowned conservationist and author of the influential book "A Sand County Almanac," emphasized the interconnectedness of all organisms and the importance of preserving ecosystems. His ideas laid the foundation for modern environmental ethics and shaped the field of wildlife management.

August Derleth, a prolific writer and environmentalist, explored the natural wonders of his home state of Wisconsin. His love for the outdoors was reflected in his numerous books and essays, inspired by the beauty and splendor of the landscapes surrounding him.

Embarking on the Journey

Now, it's time for you to follow in their footsteps and embark on an unforgettable journey. Lace up your boots, grab your backpack, and prepare to immerse yourself in the natural wonders that captivated these great minds.

Exploring Yosemite National Park with John Muir

Begin your adventure in California's Sierra Nevada mountains, where John Muir spent a significant part of his life. Yosemite National Park, with its towering granite cliffs, cascading waterfalls, and ancient sequoia groves, offers a pristine wilderness experience that inspired Muir's writings.

Hike to the top of Glacier Point and witness the breathtaking views of Yosemite Valley below. Traverse the Mist Trail alongside roaring waterfalls, feeling the mist on your face as you connect with the power of nature. Camp under the starry skies, enveloped by the tranquility that Muir cherished.

Discovering the Land Ethic with Aldo Leopold

Continue your journey to Wisconsin, the birthplace of Aldo Leopold, where you will explore the landscapes that influenced his groundbreaking ideas. The Baraboo Hills and the Wisconsin River offer a glimpse into Leopold's ecological worldview.

Canoe down the undulating Wisconsin River, witnessing the diverse wildlife and pristine scenery that Leopold devoted his life to protecting. Hike through the ancient oak forests of the Baraboo Hills, immersing yourself in the tranquil beauty that inspired Leopold's land ethic.

Immersing in the Wisconsin Wilderness with August Derleth

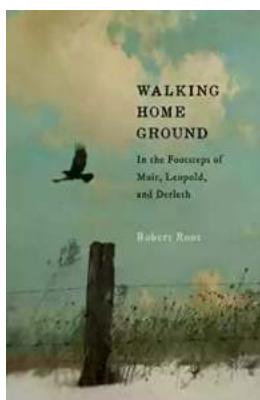

Conclude your journey in the heart of Wisconsin's untouched wilderness, Losey's Woods. This vast expanse of forests, rivers, and wetlands is the perfect place to connect with nature, just as August Derleth did during his many excursions.

Spend your days hiking through the dense forests, following the winding paths that lead to hidden waterfalls and secluded lakes. Explore the meandering rivers that flow through the wilderness, offering a sense of serenity and peace. Capture the essence of Derleth's love for the Wisconsin landscape through your own lens.

Carrying the Legacy Forward

The footsteps of Muir, Leopold, and Derleth have left an indelible mark on the world of conservation and natural exploration. Their passion, dedication, and love for nature continue to inspire generations of environmentalists and nature enthusiasts alike.

As you walk in their footsteps and immerse yourself in the wonders of nature, remember the importance of conservation and preservation. Let the beauty of these landscapes ignite a sense of responsibility within you, and carry their legacy forward by becoming a steward of the natural world.

When longtime author Robert Root moves to a small town in southeast Wisconsin, he gets to know his new home by walking the same terrain traveled by three Wisconsin luminaries who were deeply rooted in place—John Muir, Aldo Leopold, and August Derleth. Root walks with Muir at John Muir State Natural Area, with Leopold at the Shack, and with Derleth in Sac Prairie; closer to home, he traverses the Ice Age Trail, often guided by such figures as pioneering scientist Increase Lapham. Along the way, Root investigates the changes to the natural landscape over nearly two centuries, and he chronicles his own transition from someone on unfamiliar terrain to someone secure on his home ground. In prose that is at turns introspective and haunting, Walking Home Ground inspires us to see history's echo all around us: the parking lot that once was forest; the city that once was glacier. "Perhaps this book is an invitation to walk home ground," Root tells us. "Perhaps, too, it's a time capsule, a message in a bottle from someone given to looking over his shoulder even as he tries to examine the ground beneath his feet."
