We will begin our self-guided walk at Parliament Hill, a symbolic landmark of Ottawa. Make your way to the beautiful green grounds, and you'll be greeted by stunning gothic revival architecture. Take a moment to admire the iconic Peace Tower, the Centennial Flame, and the stunning view of the Ottawa River.

Stop 1: Bytown Museum

Our next stop is the Bytown Museum, a National Historic Site and a gateway to Ottawa's history. Located at the mouth of the Rideau Canal, the museum offers an insight into the city's origins as Bytown (Ottawa's early name) and its transformation into the capital of Canada. Explore the exhibits showcasing artifacts, photographs, and stories from the past.

Stop 2: Rideau Centre

As we walk towards the heart of the Byward Market, make a quick stop at the Rideau Centre. This shopping center boasts over 180 stores, including major brands, boutiques, and great dining options. Take a break, do some shopping, or grab a quick bite to eat.

Stop 3: Byward Market Square

Now, let's immerse ourselves in the vibrant atmosphere of the Byward Market Square. As you enter the square, you'll be greeted by a lively combination of artisan shops, bustling farmers' stalls, gourmet restaurants, and trendy bars. This is a perfect place to experience Ottawa's local cuisine, purchase unique souvenirs, and soak up the energy of the market.

Stop 4: Notre-Dame Cathedral Basilica

A short walk from the market square will bring us to the magnificent Notre-Dame Cathedral Basilica. Step inside this stunning church and marvel at its breathtaking stained glass windows, beautiful woodwork, and intricate detailing. Take some time to appreciate the peaceful ambiance and reflect on your journey through the Byward Market.

Stop 5: Major's Hill Park

As we conclude our self-guided walk, let's head to Major's Hill Park. This urban park offers a picturesque setting with stunning views of the Ottawa River and the Parliament Buildings. Take a leisurely stroll through the park, find a cozy spot on the grass, and enjoy a peaceful moment in nature before you end your exploration of the Byward Market.

The Byward Market is a treasure trove of history, culture, and culinary delights. This self-guided walk allows you to experience the best of what the market has to offer at your own pace. From Parliament Hill to Major's Hill Park, each stop unveils a new aspect of Ottawa's charm. So, grab a map, put on your walking shoes, and let the Byward Market guide you through the heart of Ottawa.

An excerpt from the guide:

"Making your way to Clarendon Lanes' inner court, take a moment to stare at its beauty. Look at the contrasting old brick house restaurants on one side and the modern condominiums on the other. The history of courtyards such as this one is fascinating. The ByWard Market history section [hyperlink provided in eBook] explains that such courtyards were used for the disposal of waste and junk for the then Sussex stores. These waste sites were then remodeled in parking lots, and only in the 1970s were they restored in the public spaces we see today."
