The Home Front: Mobilizing Women for Victory

The revised edition takes readers on a captivating journey, illustrating the various ways women were mobilized on the home front. With countless men sent off to war, Canadian women stepped up to fulfill the void in the workforce. They worked tirelessly in munitions factories, producing vital supplies for the frontlines. These often dangerous jobs demanded strength, caution, and remarkable skill, qualities these women possessed in abundance.

Breaking Barriers: Women in the Armed Forces

Alt attribute: Women on the Frontlines - Defying expectations and changing history

An integral theme explored in this revised edition is the extraordinary bravery of Canadian women who joined the armed forces. Contrary to societal expectations, they played an active role on the frontlines, defying gender norms. From becoming mechanics to operating radar systems, these women proved that they were more than capable of taking on traditionally male-dominated roles.

The Power of Resilience: Narratives of Strength and Hope

It is impossible to tell the story of Canadian women at war without acknowledging the challenges they faced. This revised edition sheds light on the personal struggles endured by these women, such as discrimination and post-war reintegration. However, it also emphasizes their incredible resilience, showcasing their ability to rise above adversity and carve a path to success.

Preserving Their Legacy: Honoring Canadian Women At War

Women in the military? To many, never was too soon. But by 1940, British women were out "doing their bit" for the war effort, and Canadians battled for that same right. Young Canadian women wanted to serve their country, "to free a man to fight," as the recruiting posters urged. By the war's end almost 50,000 of them were in the forces.

Carolyn Gossage has compiled a fascinating collage of anecdotal and documentary material. The colourful story of Canada's "forgotten women" - those who volunteered for service during World War II in the RCAF Women's division, the Canadian Women's Army Corps (CWAC) and the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service (Wrens) - entertains and enlightens.
