The Power of Nature

In the first book, "Mother Earth Father Sky," readers are introduced to Kiin, a young woman who must navigate the harsh realities of life in a world dominated by nature's raw power. Through her struggles, triumphs, and connections with her ancestors, Harrison explores how humans are merely a part of a vast ecosystem, bound to the earth and sky by an invisible thread.

The vivid descriptions of the Arctic landscape and the animals that inhabit it draw the readers into a world where every decision carries profound consequences. As Kiin learns the art of ivory carving, she discovers that the act of creating something beautiful from natural materials is not only a means of survival but also a way to honor the spirits that govern her world.

The Journey of the Ivory Carver

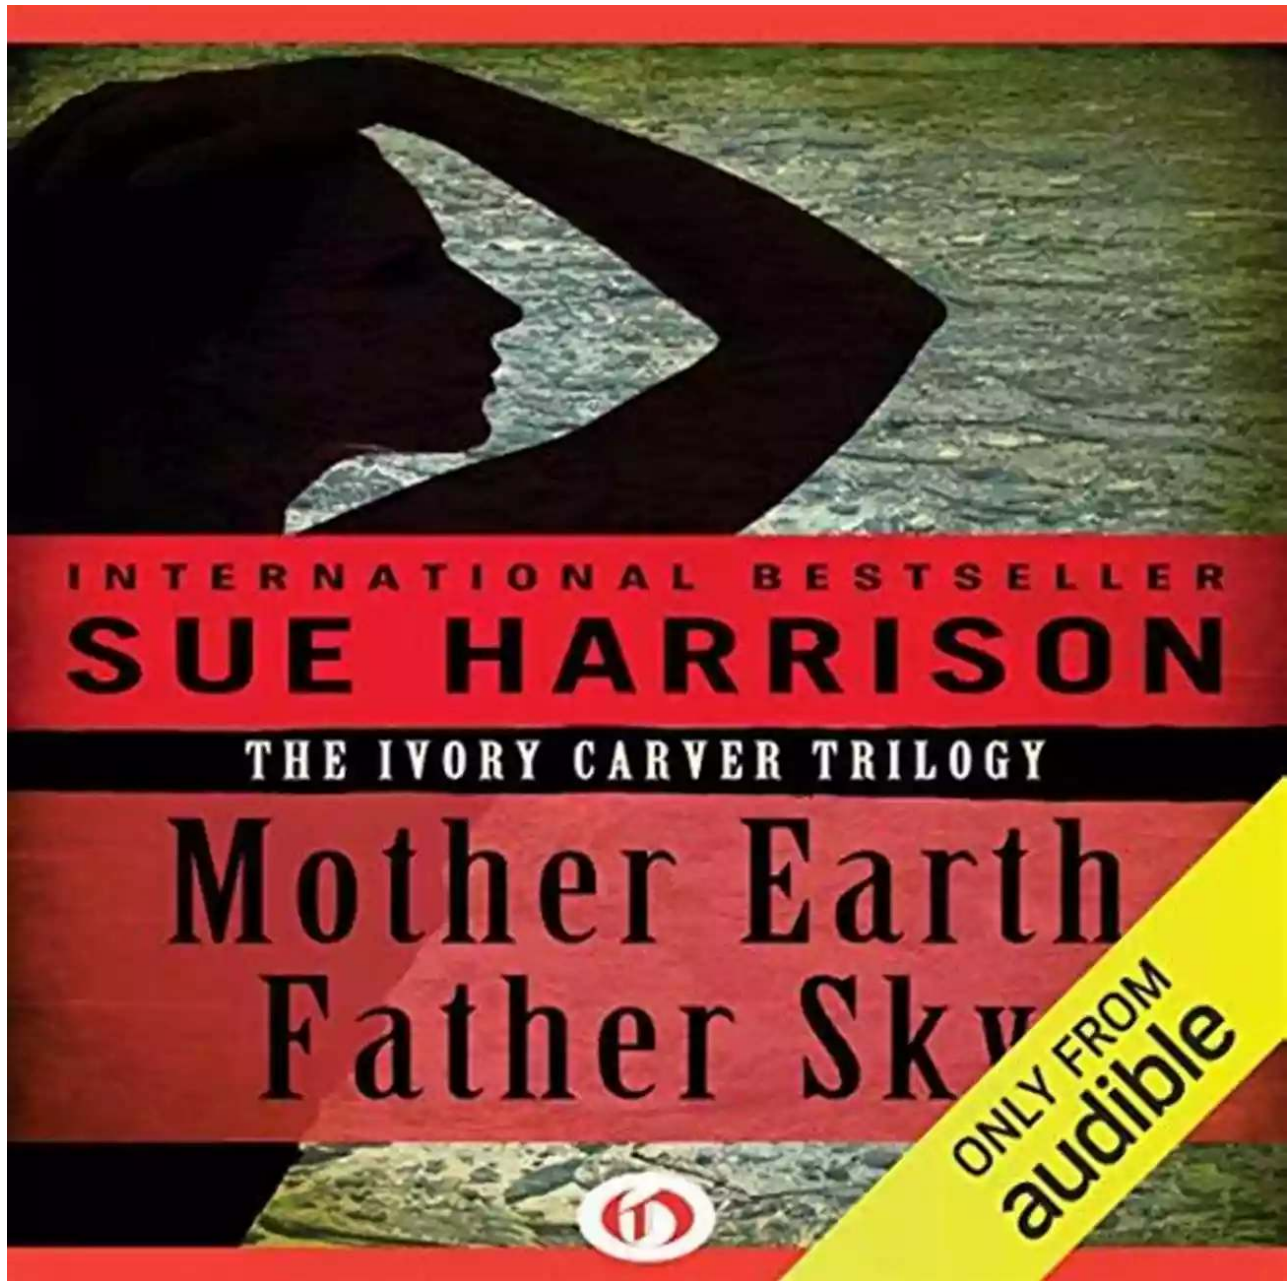

As the trilogy continues with "My Sister the Moon" and "Brother Wind," readers witness the growth and trials of Kiin's descendants. The stories delve into themes of love, loss, redemption, and the ever-present influence of Mother Earth and Father Sky.

Through the eyes of Chakliux, the gifted ivory carver, and the resolute Aqamdax, Harrison skillfully explores the complexities of human relationships and the bond shared with the natural world. Each book delves deeper into the spiritual realm, unraveling secrets and teaching valuable lessons about the interconnectedness of all beings.

An Insight into Inuit Culture

Aside from the enthralling storytelling, another element that makes the Ivory Carver Trilogy an extraordinary read is its commitment to depicting Inuit culture with authenticity and respect. Sue Harrison skillfully weaves together historical insights and traditional teachings, showcasing the importance of preserving indigenous knowledge and traditions.

Whether it's the intricate rituals, the importance of storytelling, or the reverence for the surrounding environment, readers are given a unique opportunity to immerse themselves in the rich cultural tapestry of the Inuit people.

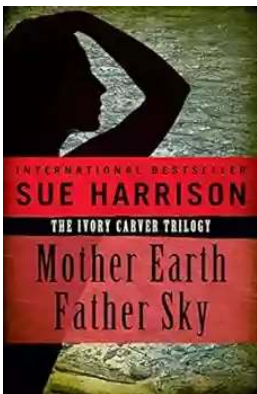

Rediscover the Magic

Mother Earth Father Sky The Ivory Carver Trilogy is not just an enthralling series; it is a poignant reminder of the power of nature and our responsibility to protect it.

The books are a call to reconnect with the natural world, to find solace in its beauty, and to respect the delicate balance upon which our very existence hinges.

So, dive into the pages of this captivating trilogy, where the title not only serves as a beautiful phrase but also encapsulates the essence of the stories within. Experience the gripping adventures, the soul-stirring relationships, and the whispers carried by the wind. Let the Inuit people guide you to a place where Mother Earth and Father Sky hold the key to both survival and profound wisdom.

A young woman comes of age in this epic saga. “Harrison expertly frames dramatic events with depictions of prehistoric life in the Aleutian Islands” (The New York Times Book Review).

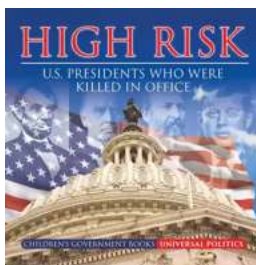

It’s 7056 BC, a time before history. On the first day that Chagak’s womanhood is acknowledged within her Aleut tribe, she unexpectedly finds herself betrothed to Seal Stalker, the most promising young hunter in the village. A bright future lies ahead of Chagak—but in one violent moment, she loses her entire way of life. Left with her infant brother, Pup, and only a birdskin parka for warmth, Chagak sets out across the icy waters on a quest for survival and revenge. Mother Earth Father Sky is the first book of the Ivory Carver Trilogy, which also includes My Sister the Moon and Brother Wind.
